Hi Meg,

Here's a portion of the text from the May 6, 2005 full-page ad that appeared in the News-Miner and in support of the Alaska Gasline Port Authority's project:

"As concerned citizens who love Alaska, we are speaking up in favor of the best and only proposal that provides maximum benefits to the state. The risk of inaction is too high. We urge you to get involved, too."

Gov. (then mayor) Palin appeared in the ad, and provided her signature, along with Hammond, Hickel and Halford.

I'd like to know if the governor stands by the statement that the port authority plan is the "best and only proposal that provides maximum benefits to the state," disavows that statement, or has some other comment on it.

Thanks much.

Linda, what are the rules about Track Plain traveling to Juneau? Since he hasn't been to Juneau yet, does he get to come and see his family's home in Juneau on a state TA, or does he have to move here? Please advise, I think he's coming down on Monday and we need to figure out his travel. Thanks! Kari.

Joe,

I assume you have your blackberry with you. Exxon CEO is slamming Alaska in their analyst meeting right now. He said the state lacks fiscal stability and that a producer-owned line is still the best bet. I'm not listening to the analyst call, but we do have someone there and I will fill you in later. Just thought you might want to pass it along to the governor in case she wants to respond. Of course, you know this is an escalating war of words that has Exxon ticked off. Give me a call when you're free.

Subject: Travel and ethics clarification, 2:00pm March 13

We have scheduled a meeting on Tuesday, March 13, at 2:00pm for discussion about travel and ethics for the Governor and First Gentleman. There seems to be confusion on the answers to questions about First Gentleman and children's travel and per diem, using the King Air, TA's, per diem, and so forth. The idea is to do things right from the get-go so we don't have any questions about how we should have done it later.

If AG Colberg, the designated ethics supervisor for the Governor, and Linda Perez could be available to answer these questions, hopefully confusion about what is okay and what is not okay for the First Family can be eliminated and our First Family will not need to spend time worrying about this.
